I. Introduction

What Is Project ELITE?

The English Language Learner Institute for Teaching and Excellence (Project ELITE) operates within the Language for Learning Institute of The Meadows Center for Preventing Educational Risk at The University of Texas at Austin. Project ELITE is a model demonstration project sponsored by the Office of Special Education Programs in the U.S. Department of Education. The goal of the project is to assist Del Valle Independent School District (DVISD) in developing, implementing, and evaluating a multitiered instructional model for kindergarten through third-grade students that focuses on the language and literacy development of English learners (ELs).

Multitiered Instructional Models for ELs

Response to intervention (RTI) is commonly implemented in the elementary grades as a framework for data-informed decision-making regarding the design and delivery of instruction for all students, including those identified with specific instructional needs. In many RTI models, instruction is “tiered” at three levels. Tier I refers to the core curriculum and instruction that all students receive, Tier II refers to supplemental support that some students receive, and Tier III offers an even more intensive level of instruction for students who do not respond adequately to Tier I and Tier II instruction. Educators use this multitiered system to identify students’ needs and respond accordingly with appropriate, research-based instruction and interventions. Given the conceptual connection between RTI and a multitiered system, we refer to our model as a multitiered system of support (MTSS) for ELs. Our work focuses on developing, testing, and adapting an MTSS within schools that serve high numbers of ELs so that model practices address the unique language and literacy needs of students who are learning English as a second language or English and Spanish simultaneously.

Five Key Model Components

The five key components of an MTSS for ELs are (1) high-quality culturally and linguistically responsive core language and literacy instruction, (2) high-quality culturally and linguistically responsive supplemental instruction (Tier II and Tier III) that is valid for ELs with or at risk for literacy-related learning disabilities, (3) linguistically aligned assessment practices, (4) systematic use of assessment data in the design and delivery of instruction and in educational decision-making, and (5) educator capacity building for sustained quality of instruction and services for ELs at risk for and with reading difficulties. Figure 1 shows the Project ELITE model’s key components.

Purpose of the Implementation Manual

The goal of Project ELITE's collaboration with DVISD has been to develop and refine an MTSS focused on the language and literacy needs of ELs. This collaboration addressed the following questions:

- What is needed at the district, school, and classroom levels to optimize a multitiered instructional framework for ELs?
- How can data best be used and interpreted when making educational decisions about ELs?
- What instructional practices and approaches meet the academic needs of ELs?
- What professional development (PD) activities improve educators' ability to adequately meet the needs of ELs?

This manual was developed to provide guidance for future replicators of the model, which may include district leaders, educators, and other stakeholders interested in implementing an MTSS model for ELs in the primary grades. This manual describes the model and how it was developed, tested, and adapted; key personnel necessary to support the model; PD required to implement the model; resources necessary for coordination; and strategies for implementing and sustaining the model over time. Formative and summative evaluation measures and data are also included. This manual also describes all project-designed tools and deliverables, including a complete roster of the available PD and the instructional guides required for implementation, support, and sustainment.

II. Project Overview

DVISD Participation and Project Timeline

Project ELITE has collaborated with three DVISD elementary campuses. During Years 1 and 2 (2011–2013), the project worked with its pilot campus, Baty Elementary, to identify key components of the model and establish baseline practices and procedures to build upon in subsequent years. Through the collaboration with district leaders, select model practices were adopted for districtwide implementation. In Year 3, two additional elementary campuses were added, Gilbert and Creedmoor, and Project ELITE supported model implementation across the three campuses. Year 4 of the project focused on model sustainability; project staff members worked with instructional leaders across the three campuses to build capacity and promote campus ownership of model practices.

Model Development and Refinement

A primary goal of model demonstration projects is to bridge educational research and practice to improve outcomes for students. The researcher-practitioner collaboration focuses on gaining knowledge about the design, development, and implementation of evidence-based models in real-world educational contexts.

In collaboration with DVISD, Project ELITE focused on developing, refining, and implementing a multi-tiered model that supports ELs within the context of culturally responsive pedagogy. At the beginning of the 2011–2012 school year, a technical advisory group was formed consisting of Baty Elementary's leadership team, grade-level lead teachers, and interventionists; the district curriculum specialist; and Project ELITE researchers. Technical advisory group meetings were held regularly to refine and support implementation of the key components of the pilot model.

During the pilot phase (Year 1), Project ELITE gathered feedback from stakeholders as the model practices were implemented. Based on this feedback, the model was adapted. In Year 2, the adapted model was implemented across the three campuses, during which Project ELITE staff members collected descriptive data and identified ways to further refine the model. In Year 3, Project ELITE focused on supporting instructional leaders in implementing the model and integrating structures that support sustainability. Table 1 provides an overview of project participation and a timeline of activities.

Key Focus Areas for ELs

Through the iterative process of model development, key needs were identified and collaboratively addressed. The following three components became focal points in model development and implementation.

Core Instruction for ELs

In a collaborative effort among researchers and campus administrators to address the large number of students in need of supplemental reading intervention (Tier II and Tier III), Project ELITE worked to identify areas in which to strengthen core instruction through principles of culturally responsive pedagogy and instructional strategies that promote second-language acquisition. Because the practice of reading text aloud to students with guided comprehension activities was already part of many teachers' instructional routine, project staff members focused on refining the practice to optimize language and literacy development for ELs, particularly in vocabulary and comprehension.

In Year 1, Project ELITE piloted the Read-Aloud Routine for Building Vocabulary and Comprehension. After feedback and refinement, the routine was implemented in all kindergarten to grade 3 classrooms during Year 2 of the project. Further comprehension enhancements were integrated into the routine and implemented during Year 3 (and presently in Year 4).

Structured Data-Analysis Meetings

As part of a districtwide effort to improve the efficiency in which students were provided services within a multitiered instructional framework, Project ELITE collaborated with district leaders, teachers, and specialists to implement a system for structured data meetings in kindergarten to grade 3. The main objectives of the data meetings were to (1) review student literacy performance data against established benchmarks, (2) collaboratively identify and discuss students' language and literacy needs, (3) group students according to need (including students in need of Tier II and Tier III instruction), and (4) select and implement evidence-based instructional practices to meet identified needs in all tiers of instruction. Grade-level teachers met monthly to review data and plan core instruction. Intervention providers, grade-level teachers, and instructional administrators gathered three times per year (the beginning, middle, and end of the year) to review benchmark data and plan Tier II and Tier III instruction.

As part of the protocol at each campus, administrators and instructional staff members were guided in optimizing the instructional process for ELs. Meeting agendas included items that asked teachers to review students' language-proficiency levels (from the Texas English Language Proficiency Assessment System) and consider that data alongside literacy data, particularly when setting student goals and planning instruction. When identifying and selecting instructional practices, teachers considered specific ways that the practices supported the language and literacy development of ELs.

Job-Embedded PD

Project staff members implemented PD that capitalized on existing frameworks for educator development and focused on job-embedded activities. The cyclical framework consisted of formal face-to-face training with continued follow-up throughout the school year (observation, feedback, reflection, and refinement). PD empowered teachers to take ownership of new practices and supported teacher leaders in sustaining new practices over time. The next section of this report describes the PD component in more detail.

III. Professional Development

Project ELITE used a variety of formats to support campuses in developing, refining, and implementing a multitiered model for ELs. During the pilot implementation and sustainability phases, teachers and key personnel received ongoing PD through formal face-to-face training, informal small-group training, coaching, observation, feedback, and self-reflection.

PD that builds educator capacity and fosters teacher leadership is key to sustaining efforts that address the needs of ELs. Project ELITE used a "gradual release" model, in which project staff members decreased the intensity of direct technical assistance over time while increasing the level of indirect technical assistance to the group of instructional leaders developed during the first 2 years of the project. In Year 2 (pilot implementation), educators at one campus participated in intensive job-embedded PD and coaching. In Year 3 (full implementation), all educators across three campuses received intensive technical assistance and job-embedded PD. In Year 4, instructional leaders received focused support. The project integrated a training-of-trainers model, in which site-level instructional leaders were trained in model practices (including enhancements and adaptations) and supported as they “turned around” the PD at their schools.

Collaborative Coaching for Enhancing Professional Practice

Successful implementation of the model required ongoing, job-embedded support that was responsive to educator needs. DVISD educators participated in a collaborative coaching model that engaged them in strategic reflection on their use of new instructional strategies in their classrooms (Kelleher, 2003; Knight, 2007). The model provides constructive feedback from coaches and trusted colleagues at critical points in the implementation process. It stresses collegial analysis, reflection, and constructive critique as a means of improving knowledge, enhancing practice, and increasing effectiveness (Sato et al., 2008; see also Bransford, Brown, & Cocking, 2004). Steps in the model are described below and summarized in Figure 2.

1. Formal PD and modeling: Teachers receive formal training that builds their knowledge base on evidence-based practices for ELs. Evidence-based practices are modeled and teachers are guided in planning and implementing new practices.
2. Peer collaboration for practice refinement: Project staff members lead ongoing, collaborative grade-level meetings to model effective lessons, foster teacher leadership, and guide teachers in collaboratively planning lessons. When appropriate, project staff members provide feedback from classroom observations. Next steps for refining practice are planned collaboratively.
3. Observation and feedback: Project staff members observe teachers’ instruction and provide targeted feedback to improve fidelity to the intervention and optimize the impact of teachers’ practice on student learning.
4. Self-observation and reflection: Teachers use self-captured videos to reflect on their own practice, based on a guided-reflection protocol. Teachers plan next steps to refine and enhance their instructional delivery.

PD Content and Activities

PD was planned around the key focus areas of the project: culturally and linguistically responsive core instruction for ELs and the structured data-meeting process. Project ELITE used a variety of formats to support district and campus staff members in developing their skills to implement the practices. Table 2 describes the Project ELITE PD content and formats for delivery.

Table 2a. Formal Face-to-Face Training

TOPIC	DESCRIPTION	PARTICIPANTS
Creating culturally responsive classrooms	Campus staff members were introduced to the concept of cultural responsiveness and engaged in a small-group activity to record various ways to operationalize culturally responsive practices in the classroom.	K–3 teachers, instructional specialists, and instructional administrators
Improving vocabulary and comprehension through read-alouds	Campus staff members explored the Project ELITE read-aloud routine to enhance students' vocabulary and comprehension during core instruction. Participants saw the routine modeled with grade-appropriate text and were guided in planning and practicing the different aspects of the routine.	K–3 teachers, instructional specialists, and instructional administrators
Implementing structured data meetings	District and campus leaders learned about the districtwide MTSS model, specifically the structured data-meeting process. Participants were trained on the process of meeting regularly to systematically review student data to (1) identify students in need of Tier I, Tier II, and Tier III instruction; (2) set student-level and grade-level goals; and (3) identify action steps for Tier I, Tier II, and Tier III instruction to meet those goals. Trainers guided district and campus leaders in using the meeting protocols and related materials to support effective data meetings. Peer collaboration and refinement	At different points in the school year, Project ELITE staff members met with educators in their professional learning community meetings. Project staff members discussed what they observed during instruction and guided teachers in planning next steps for refining practices. Teachers shared successes and challenges of the routine and collaborated with one another in planning lessons.	K–3 teachers and instructional administrators
Observation and feedback	Project ELITE staff members conducted classroom observations of teachers implementing the read-aloud routine. Fidelity observation notes were shared during debriefing sessions with teachers and administrators.	K–3 teachers and instructional administrators
Self-observation and reflection	Project ELITE staff members facilitated teachers filming themselves delivering a read-aloud lesson and viewing the lesson while taking notes on a reflection form. Teachers shared lesson strengths with colleagues and planned action steps to address areas of need.	K–3 teachers and instructional administrators

Table 2c. Training-of-Trainers Modules

TOPIC	DESCRIPTION	PARTICIPANTS
Implementing structured data meetings	Three self-paced training modules guided campus instructional leaders in conducting beginning-of-year, middle-of-year, and end-of-year structured data meetings, as well as monthly Tier I data meetings. The modules also supported campus leaders in using and adapting the data-meeting process for their specific campus needs.	Instructional administrators, assessment and data coordinators, and interventionists
Improving vocabulary and comprehension through read-alouds	Project staff members implemented a training-of-trainers model to build capacity among campus leaders in implementing the read-aloud routine. Campus leaders were trained on the instructional system and then turned the training around to teachers at each of their campuses.
Read-aloud comprehension modules	Seven training models were developed, each focusing on a comprehension strategy teachers can integrate into their read-aloud routine. Campus leaders were trained on the comprehension strategy modules and then “turned around” the training for teachers at each of their campuses. The training-of-trainers model allowed administrators to pace the rollout of the training according to campus needs and the scope and sequencing of the grade-level curriculum. ## IV. Family and Community

Family and community collaboration is an essential part of effective multitiered models for ELs. Project ELITE worked with campus community liaisons to coordinate communication and events with families. Information about the work of Project ELITE and home-school literacy connections were included in the campus newsletters published each semester. In addition, face-to-face parent sessions were held on topics relating to home-school language and literacy development.

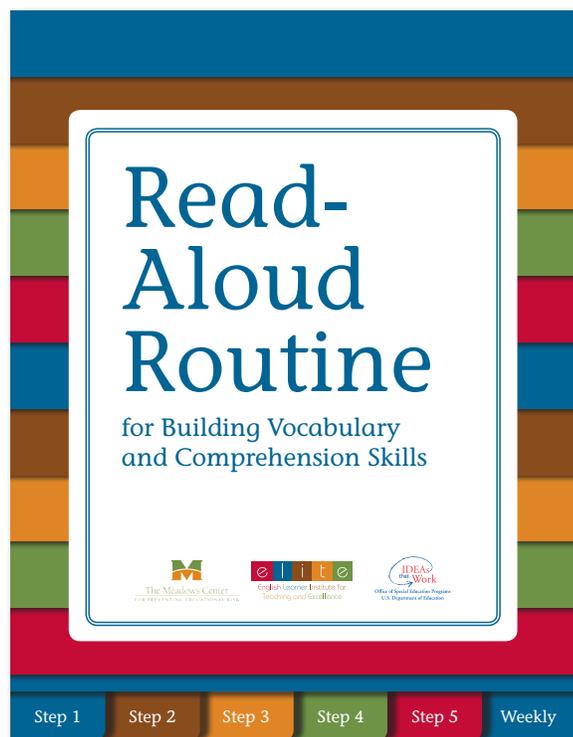

In Year 2, Project ELITE designed a modified version of the Tier I read-aloud system for parents. The tool described a sequence of steps that families could use when reading books to children at home, modeled after the steps of the classroom read-aloud routine. During the face-to-face sessions, parents were introduced to the tool and were guided in using the tool with a storybook they could take home. More information can be found in the next section of this report.

V. Tools and Deliverables

Tools and deliverables that Project ELITE developed, in collaboration with local and national partners, provided guidance for educators and leaders in implementing effective practices. These tools, described below, can be downloaded from the Resources section of the Project ELITE webpage: www.meadowscenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite.

Read-Aloud Flip Book Tool for K–3 Teachers

The Read-Aloud Routine for Building Vocabulary and Comprehension Skills tool guides kindergarten to grade 3 educators in implementing a system for whole-class text reading that focuses on the language and comprehension development of ELs. The Project ELITE read-aloud routine extended the work of Hickman, Pollard-Durodola, and Vaughn (2004), who designed a strategy for storybook reading that systematically built the vocabulary and comprehension of young ELs. The key features of the read-aloud routine include (1) introducing high-utility words within the context of a narrative or informational text, (2) reading the text aloud, and then (3) structuring meaningful interactive, text-based activities that allow for deeper processing of new vocabulary and concepts from the text. The tool also guides teachers in integrating principles of culturally responsive pedagogy and second-language acquisition. The flip book can be used as an easy reference for both planning for and delivering lessons.

Structured Data Meetings: Protocols and Materials

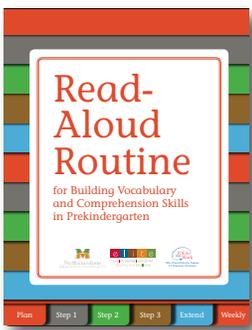

As part of the MTSS process, Project ELITE collaborated with district leaders to design a structured data-meeting process that facilitates appropriate educational decision-making for ELs. The tools include (1) a data-meeting protocol that can facilitate critical dialogue among educators, (2) meeting checklists that attendees can use as a guide, and (3) forms and worksheets for recording decisions and grouping students for supplemental instruction. A set of tools is available for beginning-of-year, middle-of-year, and end-of-year meetings for Tier I and Tiers II and III. An additional set of tools is available for monthly Tier I meetings to promote ongoing collaboration among grade-level classroom teachers.

Effective Practices for English Learners Series

Cohort 5 of the Model Demonstration Coordination Center developed this series of guidance booklets, which focus on implementing effective multitiered instructional frameworks for ELs. The goal of this series is to assist administrators, educators, policymakers, and other stakeholders in implementing or refining a campuswide model for improving the academic achievement of ELs in the primary grades. The five briefs in the series address key issues in model implementation for ELs, such as assessment and data-based decision-making, core and supplemental English as a second language instruction, core and supplemental biliteracy instruction, and PD to support a multitiered framework for ELs.

Read-Aloud Flip Book Tool for Prekindergarten Teachers

During Year 3 of the project, Project ELITE worked with the Texas Literacy Initiative to adapt and modify the kindergarten to grade 3 read-aloud flip book for children ages 3 to 5. With the basic strategies and steps remaining in place, the prekindergarten routine considers the specific instructional needs of younger children when enhancing vocabulary and comprehension. Teachers can use the flip book to plan and deliver weekly lessons.

Family Read-Aloud Bookmark

This bookmark presents a routine for parents to use with their children that is based on the kindergarten to grade 3 read-aloud system implemented in students' core classroom instruction. The parent and family guide is similar to the steps designed for teacher-led text reading but is modified for a simple and fun way to support literacy and family bonding through reading. The bookmark guides parents in teaching children new vocabulary words and interacting with children during reading time to support language and comprehension development. It is available in both English and Spanish.

PD Modules

Several PD modules are available to school leaders and educators to support the implementation of an effective multitiered model for ELs. Topics include (1) using culturally responsive pedagogy, (2) enhancing vocabulary for ELs through a read-aloud routine, (3) implementing structured data meetings, (4) enhancing read-alouds with comprehension strategies, and (5) reading aloud to children for parents and families. Table 2 provides a more detailed description of the types and topics of Project ELITE PD. Representations of these training modules are shown in the Appendices. Appendix A includes the modules relating to instructional strategies for ELs, and Appendix B includes modules relating to structured data meetings. The full training modules can be downloaded from the Resources section of the Project ELITE webpage.

VI. Implementation and Sustainability Strategies

Project ELITE used specific strategies to optimize the model development and implementation process within the participating schools. Key strategies included the following.

Building Collaborative Relationships

Project ELITE spent the first year of the project building collaborative relationships within the district and the pilot school. The project engaged site leaders and key stakeholders in a conversation about their assets and areas of need, as well as the organizational, practitioner, and student factors that they thought might improve services for ELs in the target grades. Frequent site visits, observation, and participation in school activities (e.g., staff training, data meetings, classroom instruction, schoolwide events) helped the project to maintain this collaborative relationship. Project ELITE also provided early support that was clearly aligned with site-specific needs and that facilitated buy-in among administrators and educators working with ELs.

Exploring and Developing the Model Through Collaborative Partnerships

Project ELITE approached the task of building an MTSS model for ELs with a collaborative lens. District expertise combined with the knowledge of Project ELITE staff members to identify ways to optimize instruction and services for ELs, as shown in Figure 3.

Project ELITE formed a technical advisory board of educators that serve ELs, instructional administrators, and district specialists that met regularly during the model exploration and development phase. These collaborative efforts helped the project to develop a model with high social validity—that is, a model that is appropriate, useful, and valuable to the community it directly serves.

Using Formative Data to Engage Stakeholders

Throughout the process, Project ELITE shared data from formal observations, interviews, surveys, and student assessments that demonstrated progress toward valued outcomes. This sharing helped the project to maintain buy-in of key stakeholders and practitioners and to foster early sustainability planning. Project staff members found that stakeholder awareness of the model's initial positive impact fostered early adoption of the practices and increased fidelity. Further, as the model continued to support teacher success and student outcomes, the practices that defined the model began to define teachers' typical practice as well.

Staying Responsive and Flexible to Local Needs

The first 2 years of the project were devoted to understanding site-specific needs and the factors that were unique to the students, teachers, and other stakeholders DVISD served. Piloting the model on a small scale was critical to the model's quality and social validity. As educators began to build their knowledge and implement the different components, project staff members collected data on their early implementation experiences to identify additional areas of need and to adapt model practices and procedures. The project used educator feedback to further refine the model; for example, during teachers' initial implementation of the read-aloud routine, project staff members conducted frequent observations and solicited feedback on ways the instructional system could be adapted for different grade levels and ages, as well as for ELs at different levels of language proficiency.

This type of feedback was essential in developing a prototype system for structured data meetings. Educators tried the different meeting protocols and tools for recording decisions and planning next steps. The project refined these tools based on feedback on the prototype, optimizing their usability and capacity to serve site-specific needs.

Coordinating Available Resources to Provide Ongoing, Job-Embedded PD

Job-embedded PD was critical to implementation success across the three elementary campuses. K–3 teachers across the campuses received direct teaching on the model at the beginning of the school year and then job-embedded PD throughout the year. Because project staff members worked at the individual teacher level in implementing instructional practices, the project capitalized on the campuses' established professional learning communities (PLCs) to facilitate inquiry, dialogue, and enhanced implementation of culturally responsive instructional practices. The project also integrated various strands of job-embedded PD through established PLCs. Those strands included direct teaching and modeling of the instructional practices during grade-level PLCs and a circular-coaching model in which teachers were observed, given feedback, and then brought back together in PLCs to discuss the successes and challenges of implementation. Additional job-embedded PD included self-videotaping of teachers delivering the routine and self-evaluation of their practice. The PLC framework provided a collaborative structure for teachers to share the findings of their self-evaluation, discuss common areas of needed growth and areas of success, and plan next steps.

Targeting Support for Instructional Administrators and Educator Leaders to Promote Sustainability

Successful implementation depended on building capacity among instructional leaders. The project found that direct and ongoing support to key campus instructional leaders was essential to improved implementation. Integrating a training-of-trainers model supported site leaders in taking responsibility for learning model practices and enhancement strategies and leading professional development with teachers at their campus. Engaging leaders from beginning to end was also critical in promoting model sustainability, as they provided feedback on how to adapt the model to meet their school's specific needs. This involvement fostered ownership of the model and motivated leaders to sustain its implementation. Finally, instructional leadership was key during times of staff and administrative turnover. For example, the instructional administrator at the pilot school supported new administrators at the other campuses by taking a leadership role during the training-of-trainers sessions and inviting them to her campus to observe model classrooms in which the practices were implemented with high fidelity.

Designing Products That Are Accessible, Engaging, and Understandable

High-quality educator resources are essential to successful implementation and continued use of the model over time. Throughout each phase, Project ELITE designed clear, user-friendly, and engaging educator resources that directly support educators in implementing model practices. For example, the project designed a teacher flip book tool that is used to plan and deliver the interactive read-aloud lessons that build vocabulary and comprehension skills for ELs. This tool continues to be one of the most downloaded tools on the website and has been widely disseminated through other statewide initiatives focused on ELs. Other web-based materials support continued implementation, including online, self-paced training modules; videos of model lessons; data meeting protocols and guides; and model lesson plans (see Section V and Appendices A and B for information about each tool).

VII. Summary of Implementation Data

Project ELITE's key focus areas are the implementation of high-quality core instruction and effective data-based educational decision-making for ELs. During the implementation process, the project collected qualitative data to document the impact on educators' practice, successes and challenges during implementation, and the usefulness of the practices to students. These data sources included the following:

- Focus group interviews with teachers during the pilot phase (Year 1), with teacher-leaders from each grade level during the implementation phase (Year 2), and with instructional administrators during the sustainability phase (Year 3)
- Formal classroom observations in the fall and spring semesters of each project year that measured the fidelity of implementation of the read-aloud system and that provided observational field notes
- Documents and artifacts collected from job-embedded PD with teachers
- Teacher surveys that measured the usefulness of the instructional practices and the likelihood that the practices would be sustained over time

Project ELITE analyzed, compared, and coded the data for salient themes across sources. This section of the report provides a narrative summary of the descriptive data collected during years 1 through 3 of the project.

Interactive Read-Aloud System

Overall, implementation data showed that the read-aloud instructional practices improved students' learning and use of new vocabulary. Approximately 96% ( $n = 98$ ) of teachers who completed and returned the anonymous surveys in years 2 and 3 rated the read-aloud routine as being "useful" to "very useful" to their students, and 94% ( $n = 97$ ) rated the routine as "likely" to "very likely" to be sustained at their campus.

During the focus group interviews, teachers elaborated on the impact they observed on student learning. Overall, teachers agreed that students were highly engaged in the vocabulary, text, and interactive activities implemented as part of the read-aloud routine.

One of the most noticeable impacts on learning that teachers reported was in vocabulary learning and use. Teachers stated that students showed "ownership" of new vocabulary, recognizing new words and using them across different contexts. One teacher reported that before the read-aloud routine, students would pick up books for "shallow reasons" but that students later became "more aware of the potential of words and books for learning." Teachers noticed that students in grades 2 and 3 increased their use of academic vocabulary in their writing. Another teacher reported that students were "really proud of themselves because they know how to use the word...they are more inquisitive than before, and we see them using [new vocabulary] more and more with their friends."

Teachers also described ways that the instructional routine provided targeted support for ELs. The consistency of delivering a daily, regular routine made it easier for ELs to engage with the instructional activities. ELs knew what to expect and could predict what would happen next, as well as what was expected of them during the different interactive pieces of the read-aloud. Teachers also emphasized the importance of text selection to support the second-language development of culturally and linguistically diverse students. Teachers reported being more critical when choosing books and planning more carefully for meaningful interactions around topics that relate to students' experiences. Thoughtful text selection and structured speaking opportunities helped ELs connect with the vocabulary in deeper ways. As one teacher eloquently put it, "This routine has helped to create a community of readers in my classroom who work together to build meaningful relationships with text."

Impact on Teachers' Practice

Project ELITE focused support on teacher development and refinement of teacher practice. Qualitative data documented change over time and the successes and challenges of implementing evidence-based practices.

Project ELITE observed focus teachers at each grade level and integrated job-embedded coaching with reflective feedback into the observation cycle. Teachers achieved moderate to strong fidelity to the routine after the cycle of initial training, formal observation, coaching, feedback, and self-reflection. During the implementation phase, the following two main areas of teacher-growth were noted.

Type and Quality of Classroom Interactions

As teachers reflected on their practice, they reported becoming more critical of the type and quality of their "teacher talk." Also, they became more aware of the type and quality of the opportunities created for students (particularly ELs) to use and practice new language. Through self-observation and self-reflection, many teachers noticed an overreliance on teacher talk during their instruction. Through job-embedded PD, teachers identified action steps to minimize teacher talk and maximize classroom interactions for ELs.

Targeted Support for Linguistically and Culturally Diverse Students

Interviewed teachers described becoming more critical about text selection. Through training in culturally responsive pedagogy and implementation of new practices, teachers gained awareness of the potential of the read-aloud routine for introducing high-level words to students. Rather than uncritically focusing on the preselected words found in the district curriculum, teachers described ways that grade-level teams became more autonomous in their planning. As one teacher put it, “I am more careful about books I choose...the whole second-grade team [is] more interested in books that have more higher-level [words], so we can share those with our students.”

Through the implementation process, teachers refined and enhanced their practice, becoming more precise in their delivery of the routine and more at ease with the multiple steps of the system. Overall, implementation data suggest that teachers benefited from Project ELITE’s interactive, collaborative, job-embedded support that fostered teacher autonomy. The following are some additional comments from teachers.

- “The workshop/PD that has been most positive in my classroom has been the training and meetings with Project ELITE...I have learned a lot of new skills to implement in the classroom to help develop my students’ vocabulary, fluency, and comprehension skills.”
- “I love the Project ELITE read-aloud! My students are using the vocabulary words that we learn in their writing and also speaking. I believe their listening comprehension has definitely improved also. They make inferences, draw conclusions, and make predictions. We discuss cause and effect in the stories and articles. They retell the article or story with shared writing and with partnering. The students are so much better at getting the gist of the passage. Discussing the read-aloud routine with my colleagues has given me different strategies.”
- “The vocabulary lessons that...Project ELITE has helped us to integrate into our reading and language arts are excellent. The daily practice of new vocabulary words has led to my first-graders using rich vocabulary in their writing and in their speaking.”
- “As a first-year teacher, it was great to have a routine that I could follow to help my students’ comprehension of a story and to help build their academic vocabulary. I have seen a lot of growth in my students this year because of this program. I hope this program continues because it not only benefits the students and their success in the classroom, but also this program allows students to take the information they have learned into their homes.”

Structured Data Meetings

Data-informed instructional decision-making is key to meeting the needs of ELs. Project ELITE collaborated with DVISD to implement a system of structured data-analysis meetings to promote appropriate multitiered instruction for ELs. Grade-level teachers collaborated monthly to review student assessment data, identify strengths and needs, and plan core instruction according to targeted needs. During larger meetings at the beginning, middle, and end of the year, teachers met with intervention providers and instructional administrators to review data and make decisions about supplemental (Tier II and Tier III) instruction.

Overall, DVISD educators viewed the structured data meetings as useful to their practice. Approximately 90% ( $n = 93$ ) of surveyed educators in Year 2 and Year 3 reported that Tier II and Tier III meetings at the beginning, middle, and end of the year were “useful” to “very useful” to their teaching practice, and the same percentage said it was “likely” to “very likely” that the meetings would be sustained at their campuses. Monthly Tier I meetings were viewed favorably but involved additional challenges due to time constraints and grade-level team dynamics. Approximately 83% ( $n = 85$ ) of surveyed educators reported that the Tier I meetings were “useful” to “very useful” to their teaching practice, and the same percentage of teachers said it was “likely” to “very likely” that the Tier I meetings would be sustained at their campus.

Interviewed teachers described ways that the structured system for reviewing and analyzing data enhanced their teaching practice, including the following key points:

- Through systematic, collaborative meetings, teachers could capitalize on their colleagues’ strengths in different areas.
- Teachers felt a greater “ownership” of all students in their grade level, as opposed to being divided by their individual classes.
- Teachers felt they were better informed about students’ needs across classrooms, so they could better group students according to need.

Interviewed teachers also pointed to some challenges and offered suggestions for the coming year. Classroom teachers identified a need for more effective communication with interventionists, so that Tier I instructional goals better align with Tier II and Tier III goals and so that core instruction better supports Tier II and Tier III. Other challenges described related to resources. Teachers pointed to the lack of equity in resources for bilingual literacy instruction and intervention and the inconsistency in the delivery of resources (e.g., Tier III interventions were sporadic or stopped without notice).

Data from interviews also suggested that teachers would benefit from more use of the logic model or a refresher of the process. Some teachers still did not feel confident that they understood the steps designed for students who are identified as needing supplemental instruction.

Instructional leaders interviewed at the end of Year 3 pointed to some key successes and challenges. Premeeting reflection was cited a successful practice. Instructional administrators created worksheets with prompts for teachers to consider about the data before attending meetings. This prereflection process contributed to more thoughtful and critical discussions during the meetings and saved time. However, instructional administrators still struggled with time constraints, and they continued to address this challenge. Effective data-based decision-making includes both analyzing data and using data for planning appropriate instruction; yet time limitations curbed educators’ ability to accomplish both tasks during the individual meetings. In Year 4, administrators set goals to emphasize instructional planning during the meetings, particularly in how Tier II and Tier III instruction meets the needs of ELs.

VIII. Teacher and Student Measures

Project ELITE used various measures to collect teacher and student data during the implementation process. In this section, the measures used as part of the Project ELITE model are described. Examples of the measures can be found in Appendix C.

Site- and Teacher-Level Measures

Fidelity Checklists

Project staff members developed observational protocols and procedures to measure educators' implementation of model practices. Staff members used the resulting data to describe improvements in educators' instructional delivery and knowledge, primarily in terms of the model's elements. Data also informed areas targeted through collaborative coaching.

Educator Survey: Usefulness and Sustainability of Model Practices

Teachers completed and returned anonymous surveys regarding the usefulness and sustainability of model practices. Focal model practices included the monthly Tier I structured data meetings, Tiers II and III structured data meetings, the read-aloud instructional routine, and the job-embedded PD cycle. Teachers rated the usefulness for their students and their teaching practices, as well as the likelihood that the practices would be sustained at their campuses in future years.

Educator Survey: Role of Culture and Language in Curriculum and Instruction

At the end of each year of model implementation, teachers completed a survey on their beliefs about instructional approaches for linguistically and culturally diverse students. The survey items focused on three central areas: (1) the role of culture and culturally responsive practices in teaching and learning, (2) the role of students' first or native language in teaching and learning, and (3) the value of teacher knowledge in second-language acquisition.

Evaluation of PD

Teachers rated each PD session and provided qualitative feedback on its usefulness and quality.

Student-Level Measures

Because data on students' language proficiency are needed in conjunction with literacy data to make valid decisions about the academic needs of ELs, we used data from two assessments of language proficiency and one standardized literacy measure.

Stanford English Language Proficiency Test

The Stanford English Language Proficiency Test evaluates English or Spanish language proficiency in the domains of listening, reading, writing, and speaking for students in prekindergarten to grade 12. The assessment measures students' language proficiency across five levels: pre-emergent, emergent, basic, intermediate, and proficient.

Texas English Language Proficiency Assessment System

The Texas English Language Proficiency Assessment System assesses the English language proficiency of kindergarten through grade 12 ELs in four language domains—listening, speaking, reading, and writing. English language proficiency assessments in kindergarten through grade 12 are federally required to evaluate ELs' progress in the use of academic English.

Dynamic Indicators of Basic Early Literacy Skills/Indicadores Dinámicos del Éxito en la Lectura

The Dynamic Indicators of Basic Early Literacy Skills/Indicadores Dinámicos del Éxito en la Lectura (DIBELS/IDEL) measures the acquisition of early literacy skills (in English or Spanish) from kindergarten through grade 6. It comprises six measures that function as indicators of the essential skills that every child must master to become a proficient reader—phonemic awareness, alphabetic principle and phonics, accuracy, fluency, vocabulary, and reading comprehension. DVISD administers the DIBELS/IDEL three times per year and uses it to screen students for literacy difficulties, identify student strengths and areas of need, and design and deliver supplemental instruction to address students' language and literacy needs.

IX. Dissemination of Project Findings

The goal of model demonstration projects is to bridge research and practice by studying the design, development, and implementation of evidence-based models in real-world educational contexts. The knowledge gained through Project ELITE's work with DVISD has and will continue to contribute to research and practices related to ELs both at the local and national levels. Project findings have been disseminated to larger audiences through methods including the following.

Annual Office of Special Education Programs Project Directors Conferences

Project ELITE principal investigators attended this yearly conference in Washington, D.C., to share key findings from the implementation process and collaborate with colleagues working with ELs across the nation.

Monthly and Bimonthly Conference Calls

Project ELITE staff members participated in regular conference calls with principal investigators from the Model Demonstration Coordination Center, the project's Office of Special Education Programs project officer, and colleagues from collaborating sites at The University of Texas at Austin and University of Colorado Boulder. The purpose of the conference calls was to share implementation findings, compare findings across sites, and address implementation challenges across diverse school and program contexts.

U.S. Department of Education Briefing

Along with other researchers from The University of Texas at Austin and the University of Colorado Boulder, Project ELITE principal investigators presented the findings of the 4-year project at a briefing in Washington, D.C. The presentation provided guidance to administrators, teachers, instructional coaches, and policymakers in implementing a culturally and linguistically responsive multitiered model in schools with bilingual education and English as a second language programs. The findings were presented to a diverse audience at the U.S. Department of Education, and it was streamed live across the nation. The archived webcast is available online:

Research Publications and Presentations

Project findings are disseminated to wider audiences through research briefs, journal articles, and conference presentations that describe effective multitiered practices for ELs and knowledge gained from their implementation in DVISD. Through these formats, our work has reached larger audiences, and educators have used and further refined our tools and deliverables to meet the unique needs of elementary-age students. Appendix D includes a full list of project publications and presentations and an overview of their impact.

Structured Data Meetings

Beginning-of-Year Meetings

To facilitate data-based decision-making, the data-based decision-making team will convene regularly to review and analyze the data from the beginning of the year.

Major Goals:

- Establish a common understanding of the data and the implications for instruction and intervention.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.

Preparation:

- Review the data from the beginning of the year.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.

During the Meeting:

- Review the data from the beginning of the year.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.

Follow-up:

- Review the data from the beginning of the year.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.

Item II and III Beginning-of-Year Check-in Meeting Progress, Strategy Goals, and Planning Instruction

Item II: Have review current performance of students.

- Review current performance of students.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.

Item III: Have data-based decision-making team and student intervention group.

- Review current performance of students.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.
- Identify areas of student achievement that are strengths and areas of concern.

A deeper look at language...

- Language & Culture: Inseparable

Culture is embedded in the language we use everyday – our "vocabulary"

- Being culturally responsive is being "linguistically" responsive

Knowing the stages of second language acquisition

Example

"to spend"

Lucy waited 1 hour in line to buy tickets to a movie. While she waited, Lucy talked to a friend for 15 minutes, and she read a book for 20 minutes. The rest of the time, Lucy played a video game. How much time did Lucy spend playing a video game?

- A. 38 minutes
- B. 60 minutes
- C. 25 minutes
- D. 15 minutes

"Time is Money"

- Don't waste time.
- Invest time wisely.
- Did you budget enough time for ____?
- It costs time to plan effectively. But the time you spend pays off!
- Can you think of others?

*Is it worth the time? Is he a good time-manager?
"Stealing time" "time-theft" "bank hours"*

Preproduction Stage

English language learners:

- Have little or no English competency
- Enter silent period
- Use nonverbal responses
- Gather information about the new language

Instructional focus:

- Make language comprehensible

+ Early Production Stage

English language learners:

- Have little English competency
- Use simple words and phrases
- Use telegraphic speech
- Use formulaic chunks of language

Instructional focus:

- Make language comprehensible
- Plan for ELLs to work in small groups

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

+ Speech Emergence Stage

English language learners:

- Build sentences
- Try new vocabulary
- Understand more language than they can produce

Instructional focus:

- Plan meaningful opportunities to speak
- Provide sufficient contextual support

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

+ Intermediate and Advanced Fluency Stage

English language learners:

- Begin to engage in extended discourse
- Answer complex questions
- Learn academic English

Instructional focus:

- Provide contextual support
- Emphasize academic English development

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

+ Remember

ELLs are doing twice the cognitive work of native speakers because they are acquiring new reading and writing concepts and skills, while at the same time attending to the sounds, meaning, and structures of a new language.

Culturally Responsive Classrooms: What it is...

- English learners communicating in their native language with children from similar cultural and linguistic backgrounds
- Calling on all students frequently, giving ample feedback and praising
- Implementing a challenging curriculum
- Providing intensive time on task
- Genuine respect for students and belief in student capability
- Students seeing themselves reflected in the stories being read to teach critical concepts
- Utilizing families' funds of knowledge

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Culturally Responsive Classrooms: What it is NOT...

- Teaching one lesson on MLK during Black History Month
- Celebrating Cinco de Mayo or other holidays with dance and special foods
- Only having books of prominent cultural leaders (MLK, Cesar Chavez), etc.
- Believing that children are empty vessels ready to be filled with knowledge...

Beyond heroes and holidays, it is about understanding students' home life, their language, music, dress, behavior, jokes, ideas about success, the role of religion and community in their lives, and more. It is bringing the experiences of their 24-hour day into the seven-hour school day to give them information in a familiar context. - Cynthia Kopkowski

Culturally Responsive Classrooms: Where do I begin?

Ask yourself questions:

- Have I made a conscious effort to get to know the cultural background of each of my students?
- Do I integrate literature and resources from the cultures of my students into my lessons?
- Do I begin my lessons with what my students already know from home, community, and school?
- Do I understand the differences between academic language and my students' social language, and do I find ways to bridge the two?

Cultural Responsiveness

- A process which includes cultivating an open attitude and acquiring new skills
- Having the capacity to function effectively in cultural contexts that differ from your own
- Developing the ability to be culturally responsive is an ongoing process

Overview of Read-Aloud Cycle

PREPARATION FOR EACH TEXT
Choose a narrative or informational text, "chunk" it into sections of 200 to 250 words, and for each chunk, select three or four vocabulary concepts that students do not already know. Use a culturally responsive lens when selecting texts.

BEFORE READING Repeat the routine daily until the text is complete.

- STEP 1: Preview the selection and introduce the three to four vocabulary words for today's chunk of text. Use morphemic representations and contextual examples to teach the words.

DURING READING

- STEP 2: Read the selection aloud to students without stopping, using appropriate prosody and expression.
- STEP 3: Have students visit the text and make one inference, scaffolding their use of target vocabulary when possible.
- STEP 4: Reread the text, directing students to listen for target vocabulary and discuss meaning.

AFTER READING

- STEP 5: Extend comprehension through deep processing of vocabulary knowledge and text content.

LAST DAY FOR EACH TEXT
Choose four to five vocabulary words from previous days that were particularly challenging and in need of further study. Reread or reread the entire story. Adapted from Hickman, Tolled-Dunstad, & Vaughn (2004)

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Why chunk text?

- The teacher can focus on a smaller number of vocabulary words and explore meanings in depth.
- When children complete a text over 3-4 days, they maintain text comprehension and vocabulary knowledge over a longer period of time.
- Limiting text allows for more instructional opportunities for vocabulary and comprehension skill development in relation to the text over time. (Hickman et al., 2004)

Step 2: Read the Chunk of Text

5 minutes

Step 2: Read the Chunk of Text

Tell six pairs to listen for the vocabulary words while you read and to give a “thumbs-up” or other gesture when they find a word.

Have a specific question before reading or tell students to listen carefully while you read because they will have to answer questions.

Do not read until you pause to make and answer student questions.

Read the chunk of text WITHOUT STOPPING, focusing on intonation and emphasis to provide a good model for students.

Do not read until you pause to make and answer student questions.

Guide students in discussing and retelling the passage.

- Ask students to use what they learned to answer questions to the chunk of text.
- Provide a specific question or one question word with words in context. (vocabulary)
- Encourage students to use the same question words while reading the story or answering questions.

Options for Implementation

- Lesson Length
  - Between 5 and 15 minutes
  - Depends on age of children
  - Depends on time of year
- Delivery
  - Delivered in 1 sitting
  - Broken up on the same day
  - Example: Vocabulary introduced in one sitting and the rest of the routine in a different sitting that day
- Text Reading
  - One read vs. two reads
  - Depends on stamina of students

Language and Culture

- Can be used in bilingual programs to build first-language vocabulary and comprehension
- Can be used to build English vocabulary and comprehension, during English-development time
- To implement the framework with culturally and linguistically diverse children, consider:
  - Program's language of instruction
  - Students' home language
  - Students' culture, interests, and experiences

Read-Aloud Routine	Rutina de leer en voz alta
1 Choose a book your child is interested in. It should be more difficult than a book your child can read independently.	1 Elija un libro que le interesa a su niño(a). El libro debe ser más difícil que el que su niño(a) pueda leer independientemente.
2 Ask a question about what the story might be about. For example, "What do you think will happen?"	2 Haga una pregunta acerca de lo que piensan que va a pasar en el cuento. Por ejemplo, ¿Qué piensas que va a suceder en el cuento?
3 Before reading, choose three or four words that your child may not know and talk about what the words mean. For example, "The word 'decide' means 'to make a choice.'"	3 Antes de leer el cuento, elija 3-4 palabras que su niño(a) no conozca y hablen sobre los significados de las palabras. Por ejemplo, "La palabra 'decidir' significa 'tomar una decisión sobre algo.'"
4 Create a signal that your child will use when they stop you to ask a question. For example, "I have a question!" or "I need help!"	4 Cree una señal que su niño(a) use cuando él o ella necesite ayuda. Por ejemplo, "¿Tengo una pregunta?" o "¿Necesito ayuda?"
5 Tell your child to have control of the story because you will ask questions.	5 Dígale a su niño(a) que él o ella tiene el control del cuento porque usted hará preguntas.
6 Read the story aloud for the signal when you stop. If the reader stops, then the signal is given. Have your child explain what happened. For example, "I need help!" or "I have a question!"	6 Lea el cuento en voz alta hasta que su niño(a) dé la señal. Cuando su niño(a) dé la señal, deténgase y permita que su niño(a) explique lo que sucedió. Por ejemplo, "¿Tengo una pregunta?" o "¿Necesito ayuda?"
7 After reading the story, ask your child questions about what happened. For example, "What was the story about?" or "What was the problem about?"	7 Después de leer el cuento, haga preguntas acerca de lo que sucedió. Por ejemplo, ¿Qué pasó en el cuento? ¿Cuál fue el problema?
8 Help your child make connections between the story and his or her own experiences. For example, "I like the character because..." or "I like the character because..."	8 Ayuda a su niño(a) hacer conexiones entre el cuento y sus propias experiencias. Por ejemplo, "Me gusta el personaje porque..." o "Me gusta el personaje porque..."

Step 3 / Tercer Paso

3 Before reading, choose three or four words that your child may not know and talk about what the words mean. For example, "The word 'decide' means 'to make a choice.'"

Antes de leer el cuento, elija 3-4 palabras que cree que su niño(a) no conozca y hablen sobre los significados de las palabras. Por ejemplo, "La palabra 'decidir' significa 'tomar una decisión sobre algo.'"

www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Step 4 / Cuarto Paso

4  Create a signal that your child will use when he or she hears the new words in the story. This signal can be a "thumbs-up," a cheer, or anything fun.

4  Escoja una señal con su niño(a) que le mostrará al escuchar las palabras nuevas en el cuento. Esto puede ser un "pulgar hacia arriba" o algo más divertido.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowscenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Step 5 / Quinto Paso

5  Tell your child to listen carefully to the story because you will ask questions afterward.

5  Dígale a su niño que escuche atentamente al cuento, porque se le hará preguntas después.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowscenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Step 6 / Sexto Paso

6  Read the story and look for the signal when you get to the vocabulary words. After the signal is given, have your child explain what the word means. For example, "You're right! There's our word. Can you tell me what the word 'decide' means?"

6  Lea el cuento y busque la señal al llegar a las palabras de vocabulario. Después, pídale a su niño que le diga lo que significa la palabra. Por ejemplo, -¿Me puedes decir que significa la palabra 'decidir'?

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowscenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Step 7 / Séptimo Paso

7  After reading the story, ask your child questions about what happened. For example, "What was the story about? Who are the characters? What was the problem? How was the problem solved?"

7  Hágale preguntas a su niño después de leer el cuento. Por ejemplo, -¿Quiénes son los personajes de la historia? ¿Cuál era el problema? ¿Cómo se ha resuelto el problema?

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowscenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Step 8 / Octavo Paso

8  Help your child make connections between the story and his or her experiences. For example, "What does this story remind you of? Have you ever felt like (character's name)?"

8  Ayude a su niño a hacer las conexiones entre el cuento y las experiencias que han tenido su familia y su niño(a). Por ejemplo, -¿De qué le recuerda este cuento? ¿Le has sentido como (nombre de un personaje en el cuento)?

More Ideas! ¡Mas Ideas!

- Create "Vocabulary Cards" for each word that includes the word and it's meaning.
- Hagan "Tarjetas del Vocabulario" para cada palabra y incluyan el palabra y el significado.
- Help your child think of a gesture that represents the meaning of the word. Your child can use that gesture when he/she hears the word in the story.
- Ayuden a su hija/o a hacer un gesto que representa la palabra. Puede usar este gesto cuando escucha la palabra en el cuento.

More Ideas! ¡Mas Ideas!

- After the you read the story, your child can decorate the vocabulary cards with images of events that happened in the story.
- Despues de leer, su hija/o puede decorar las tarjetas del vocabulario con imagenes de lo que pasa en el cuento.
- For longer books, divide the story and read a section each night.
- Para libros largos, dividan el cuento y lean un sección cada noche.

Comprehension Training of Trainers: Inferring

Inferring

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Inferring is...

Using prior knowledge and textual clues to draw conclusions, determine themes and big ideas, and interpret text when the author doesn't tell us something explicitly.

Pictures and words	+	Prior knowledge	=	An inference!
Text clues		What we know

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

What's Key for Kids.....

- Using background knowledge, textual and picture clues to understand the meaning of the text and unknown words.
- Knowing to infer when answers to their questions aren't explicitly stated in the text.
- Making predictions about the texts and confirming or contradicting them as they read
- Understanding that inferring will help them deepen their comprehension

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Week 1- Making Predictions

- Discuss and create an anchor chart. On the top write the answers to these questions: What does it mean to make predictions? What do we use to help us? Why do we make them? On the bottom create a T-Chart with the headings, "Our Predictions" and "The thinking behind our predictions"
- Model making predictions during the 1st chunk by recording your prediction and the thinking behind it on the chart.
- After each chunk revisit your prediction to determine if your prediction can be confirmed and if it can, mark it with a "C"
- Allow students to practice on other chunks by recording their predictions on the chart and creating the same 2 columns in their reading response journal. Be sure to provide a sentence stem and think-pair-share opportunities.
- Provide opportunities for students to share predictions and confirm or contradict their predictions.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Week 2- Inferring for Word Meaning

- Prior to the lesson create an interactive anchor chart for inferring word meaning- See example
- During the second read of the 1st chunk point out 2 additional words in the text that the students are unfamiliar with.
- Record the words on the anchor chart.
- Model making inferences about word meaning using pictures, background knowledge, and rereading.
- Complete the column "What helped us?"
- Allow students to practice on other chunks using the anchor chart. Be sure to provide a sentence stem and think-pair-share opportunities.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Week 3- Inferring

- Create an anchor chart with the class. On the top- What inferring is and why it is important. On the bottom half- Create a three column chart with the titles, What I see/hear, What I know, My inference
- Model making inferences during the 1st chunk by asking your inference question, and filling in the columns of the anchor chart you created.
- Allow students to practice on other chunks using the anchor chart and during reading response. Be sure to provide a sentence stem and think-pair-share opportunities.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Read Aloud Mini-Lessons

- Ongoing during Project Elite Read Aloud Routine- Continue to write an inference question for each chunk of your read aloud. Refer back to the posted inferring anchor chart as a reference.

Extending Learning

After modeling making and writing connections during your mini-lesson....

- provide sticky notes and opportunities for your students to independently read and make inferences with sticky notes.
- Model and use graphic organizers that will help students make inferences.
- provide reading response opportunities for making and explaining inferences.
- Keep your anchor charts visible and teach your students to use them as a reference.

Did your students?

- Understand what it means to infer?
- Understand that their background knowledge is important to understanding what they read and learn?
- Use their background knowledge along with text clues to make meaning?
- Infer the meaning of unfamiliar words and concepts using context clues?

What's Key for Kids.....

- Making connections between what they already know and what they read.
- Making connections within and across texts.
- Describing the difference between connections that are meaningful and those that are not.
- Understanding the different connections they can make and how this helps them grow as learners.

Types of Connections

- Text-to-Self- A connection between the book, your prior knowledge, and life experiences.
- Text-to-Text- A connection between the book you are reading and another book or text.
- Text-to-World- A connection between the book and events in the real world.

Week 1-Text-to-Self Connections

- Discuss and add to anchor chart.
- Model making text-to-self connections during the 1st chunk by saying your connection, writing your connection on a sticky note, and sticking it in the story.
- Allow students to practice on other chunks and during reading response. Be sure to provide a sentence stem and think-pair-share opportunities.
- Provide opportunities for students to connect to the characters in the story as well as the events.

Meaningful Connections

- Throughout all the mini-lessons help students make meaningful connections that help them increase their learning and understanding.
- When students share during think-pair-share or in reading response journals you ask, "Does that help us learn more about the story?"

Activity 1-
Day 1- Students make connections on sticky notes after the read aloud. Collect them.
Day 2- Before reading the next chunk read each connection and discuss whether the connection helped them understand the story.

Activity 2-
Day 1- Have the students make a connection one day during reading response.
Day 2- Ask, "Did your connection help you learn more about the story?" Have them respond below their connection in their reading response journal.
* You can continue to do these activities as needed to support meaningful connections.

Did your students?

- Understand what it means to make a connection to the text and the different types of connections?
- Understand that their personal experience is important to understanding what they read and learned?
- Make connections across texts when thinking about ideas, events, and characters?
- Think about what they know-their background knowledge-to understand new information-connect new to the known?

What's Key for Kids.....

- Readers ask questions before, during, and after reading to clarify meaning, determine author's purpose, locate information.
- Readers determine whether they can find answers directly in the text or if they will have to infer the answer using background knowledge.
- Understanding that sharing their questions and listening to other's questions deepens their understanding.
- Readers understand that questioning will help them deepen their comprehension

Week 1-Questioning Before, During, and After Reading.

- Discuss and create a definition for questioning on the top part of the anchor chart. Draw 3 columns on the bottom of the chart and label them, "Before Reading, During Reading, and After Reading"
- Before the read aloud starts record questions students have on a sticky note and put it in the first column. After the first read record questions students have on sticky notes in the second column. After the read aloud have students go back to their seat and record questions they still have on a sticky note and place these in the third column.
- After each chunk have the students record their questions before, during, and after reading on a sticky note and add it to the anchor chart.
- Allow students to share their questions through think-pair-share and discussion. Be sure to provide a sentence stem and think-pair-share opportunities.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Week 2- Questioning Web

- Revisit questioning on the anchor chart.
- After the first chunk of your read aloud have your students write questions they have about the character or story.
- Choose one question to create a questioning web with. Create a chart with the question in the inner circle and information that is learned will be recorded as the web. At the end of the story you will come up with a conclusion. See example.
- Allow students to practice on other stories and with partners using the questioning web graphic organizer.
- Be sure to provide a sentence stem and think-pair-share opportunities.

www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Week 3- Author's Purpose

- Create an anchor chart to show the 3 reasons author's write text. (To inform, to persuade, to entertain) See example
- Write the question, "What was the author's purpose for writing this story?" in the circle on the questioning web.
- Model using the web to determine this information throughout the read aloud routine.
- Allow students to practice finding author's purpose with partners and independently using other text.

Ongoing.....

- Ask questions before, during, and after your read aloud that are directly in the text and questions that require your students to infer.
- Ask them how they got the answer. Did they have to infer? Was the answer right there?
- Refer back to the anchor chart as a reference.

What's Key for Kids.....

- Pulling out the main details.
- Breaking down larger ideas.
- Writing only enough to convey the gist.
- Readers understand that summarizing will help them deepen their comprehension

Week 1/Ongoing- Gist/Summary

- Discuss and create a definition for Gist/Summary on the top part of the anchor chart.
- Model writing a gist statement on the anchor chart after each chunk of the read aloud.
- Allow students to think-pair-share their gist statement. Be sure to provide a sentence stem.
- Provide opportunities for students to share their gist statements.
- At the end of the cycle, show students how the gist statements can be put together to create a summary.
- Continue to model this during every read aloud.

Sentence Stems

- The most important details are _____.
- The most important part was _____.
- I learned _____.
- At the beginning, _____.
- In the middle, _____.
- At the end, _____.

Extending Learning

After modeling making and writing gist statements and summaries during your mini-lesson....

- provide sticky notes and opportunities for your students to work with a partner to write gist statements.
- Provide opportunities for your students to share their gist statements with others.
- Model and use graphic organizers that will help students summarize.
- provide reading response opportunities for making and explaining gist statements/summaries.
- Keep your anchor charts visible and teach your students to use them as a reference.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Did your students?

- Understand what it means to summarize?
- Draw conclusions, create unique interpretations of the text, recall details significant to the text, and recall the text?
- Share gist statements that reflected the most important/key details in the text?
- Use gist statements/summarizing in their writing?

Synthesizing is....

- When readers combine prior knowledge and new knowledge to understand and evolve their thinking.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

What's Key for Kids.....

- Readers monitor overall meaning, important concepts, and themes in text as they read, understanding that their thinking evolves in the process.
- Using retell as a way of synthesizing.
- Readers extend their synthesis of the literal meaning of a text to the inferential level.
- Readers understand that synthesizing will help them deepen their comprehension

Week 1- Model- Synthesizing

- Discuss and create a definition for Synthesizing on the top part of the anchor chart. On the bottom write "I'm thinking" (Record your prediction here)
- After the second read of each chunk record your thinking. At first I thought, but now I'm thinking....
- Model synthesizing during an entire read aloud routine by recording your thinking after each chunk.
- On the last day revisit your prediction, record what you think now after reading the entire text and any changes in your thinking or new thinking.
- Allow students to share their thoughts through think-pair-share and discussion. Be sure to provide a sentence stem and think-pair-share opportunities.
- Provide opportunities for students to share their thoughts and how they changed during each chunk of the read aloud.

Week 2- Synthesizing Practice

- Revisit Synthesizing and how it helps them become better readers.
- Give the students the synthesizing graphic organizer to record their predictions.
- After each chunk, have students record their thinking on the graphic organizer.
- Allow students to share their thinking and what they wrote using pair-share and class discussion.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

What's Key for Kids.....

- Proficient readers create mental images during and after reading. These images come from all five senses and the emotions are anchored in the reader's prior knowledge.
- Proficient readers use images to draw conclusions, create unique interpretations of text, recall significant details, and recall a text.
- Images frequently become part of the reader's writing.
- Readers adapt their images as they read and as other readers share their images.
- Readers use images to immerse themselves in rich detail as they read.
- Readers understand that visualizing will help them deepen their comprehension

Week 1-Creating Mental Images

- Discuss and create a definition for visualization on the top part of the anchor chart. Draw a box with 4 squares. In the first box write, "My image now". In the other 3 squares write "and now".
- Model visualizing during the 1st chunk after the first read by recording your visualization on a sticky note and discussing the thinking behind it.
- After each chunk have the students record their mental images on a sticky note and add it to the anchor chart.
- Allow students to share their mental image through think-pair-share and discussion. Be sure to provide a sentence stem and think-pair-share opportunities.
- Provide opportunities for students to share their mental images and how they changed during each chunk of the read aloud.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Week 2-Poetry

- Revisit Visualization and how it helps them become better readers.
- Choose a poem a day for your read aloud routine. Think aloud about words in the text that help you create mental images and illustrate your images on sticky notes.
- Read the students a poem each day and have them use sticky notes to draw their mental images.
- Have them share their mental images with a partner and decide if their images are still the same or have changed and why.
- Discuss and share as a class.
- Allow students to practice on other poems in a center or readers workshop setting.
- Be sure to provide a sentence stem and think-pair-share opportunities.

After modeling visualizing during your mini-lesson...

- provide sticky notes and opportunities for your students to independently read and visualize with sticky notes.
- Provide opportunities for your students to share their visualizations with others.
- Model and use graphic organizers that will help students visualize.
- provide reading response opportunities for making and explaining visualizations.
- Keep your anchor charts visible and teach your students to use them as a reference.

Having Critical Conversations around Data

Structured data meetings are collaborative effort among various school staff with diverse expertise to:

- Collect and analyze data over time to make educational decisions.
- Use data to identify student needs and problem-solve ways to meet student needs.
- Set measurable goals and plan action steps to achieve those goals.

DVISD RTI Logic Model

Response to Intervention Model
Del Valle ISD

The diagram shows a flow from 'All Students' through 'At-Risk Learners' to 'Students who are Tier 1 only' and 'Students who are Tier 2 only'. It includes boxes for 'Teacher Provided Tier 1 Intervention', 'Teacher Provided Tier 2 Intervention (Plus Tier 1)', 'Intervention Provided Tier 3 Intervention (Plus Tier 1)', and 'Tier 3 Intervention (Plus Tier 1)'. It also mentions 'Monitoring and Assessment' and 'Data Analysis'.

Structured Data Meetings as Professional Development

“Rather than viewing data meetings as something separate from professional development, such meetings should be viewed as part of the professional development that teachers receive. ... At these meetings, teachers can ask questions and ask for support in certain areas or with specific types of students if they feel they need more instructional knowledge or strategies. These meetings can also lead to [other] professional development activities.”

Step 1: Validate Need for Support

- The team determines confidence in what the data is telling them about students.
- The team discusses accuracy of data overall.
- The team reviews TELPAS (and/or other language proficiency data) for ELLs identified as needing support.
- The team reviews any additional appropriate forms of data in order to validate conclusions about student needs.

Steps 4 – 5, Plan for Support: Evaluate and Select Practices

STEP 4: Team analyzes instructional practices.

PROCEDURE	DISCUSSION PROMPTS	MATERIALS
Use the following filters: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>The practice is evidence based.</li> <li>If necessary, the practice can be modified to support ELLs.</li> <li>Curricular materials are available or can be readily created to implement the practice or strategy.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>"Let's rate these ideas."</li> <li>"Which have a research base? How do you know?"</li> <li>"In what ways do these practices support ELLs?"</li> <li>"Which, if any, modifications need to be made to support ELLs?"</li> <li>"Which of these practices are most practical?"</li> <li>"What materials do we have available? What materials do we need?"</li> </ul>	Chart paper to record team analysis of each idea

STEP 5: Team selects practices and agrees to implement during next benchmark period.

DISCUSSION PROMPT	MATERIALS

Guiding Questions

- What impact has our instructional decisions made at BOY had on students? What were our students' response to those instructional decisions?
- What impact has the supports provided to teachers since BOY had on instruction and learning?
- What challenges have we encountered with Tier II/III interventions? How can we better address those?

Understanding the Protocol

STEP 1: Team reviews current performance of students.

PROCEDURE

- Consider Texas English Language Proficiency Assessment System (TELPAS) scores for English language learners (ELLs).
- Consider hearing and vision tests (schedule if not yet administered).
- Note whether grade level and individual students made substantial growth (compared to last assessment period or last year).

DISCUSSION PROMPTS

- "Let's analyze how our students are doing on [benchmark skill]."
- "How did this cohort of students do compared to last year's cohort?"
- "How many ELLs do I have in my class? What are their proficiency levels for each TELPAS domain?"
- "Is there a disproportionate number of ELLs identified as being at risk?"

Turn, Talk, & Share Out...

- How did you allocate time for your BOY meetings? Did you encounter challenges with time and scheduling of your BOY meetings?
- Do you anticipate any of the same challenges for MOY? What ideas do you have to address those challenges?

www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Allocating Time for your meetings: Some suggestions

Breaking up your meeting schedule:

- Use BOY, MOY, and EOY structured Data meetings to focus on intervention instruction and decisions about students intervention needs.
- Use monthly PLC's to conduct Tier I meetings and make data-informed decisions about Core Instruction.

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M10003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Allocating Time for your meetings: Some suggestions

- Have student data prepared and available to teachers before the meetings.
- Give team members “homework” for analyzing the data beforehand.
- Ask your team to consider what the data is telling them about students before the meeting, and to come prepared to discuss how to target their students’ instructional needs.

Steps 3 – 6: Plan for Support

Guiding TIER I questions for MOY:

- What instructional practices worked (i.e., resulted in improved outcomes)?
- In what areas are students still in need of support? Did we target these areas in previous meetings? If so, why have we not seen improvement?
- What additional instructional practices can we implement to target these areas?

Step 1: Analyze student performance

STEP 1: Team reviews previous goals and compares to current performance.

PROCEDURE	DISCUSSION PROMPTS	MATERIALS
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Examine intervention group progress-monitoring data.</li> <li>Compare scores from last assessment period to scores from current period.</li> <li>Examine rate of improvement for each student and each group.</li> <li>Consider students' English language learner (ELL) status and level of language proficiency for each of the language domains.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>"How did our students do in Tier II and Tier III this period?"</li> <li>"How far behind are these students?"</li> <li>"Is each student improving at an adequate rate?"</li> <li>"Are a disproportionate number of ELLs still at risk?"</li> </ul>	Intervention group progress-monitoring data

Step 2, Determine effectiveness of interventions: Guiding Questions

- How did our interventions work this period?
- To what might we attribute the growth we have seen in students receiving Tier II and III instruction?
- Why are some students showing little or no growth? Does this point to some needed modifications in the intervention?
- Did ELLs make adequate progress toward literacy and language goals?

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Step 3: Determine intervention needs and make needed modifications

Guiding Questions:

- Which students are in need of intervention changes? What evidence do we have for those conclusions?
- Which changes would be most effective for students not making adequate progress:
  - Adjustment to the intervention instruction?
  - Change of intervention program or group?
  - More second language supports?

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Considering Second Language Needs

Guiding Questions:

Are my ELs making adequate progress toward the TELPAS proficiency goals we set (listening, speaking, reading, writing)?

Are ELs receiving adequate language supports during intervention instruction?

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowcenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Turn, Talk, & Share Out

- How will you take students' language proficiency into consideration when making intervention decisions at MOY?
- How do you ensure that your team has collaborative understanding of the support each student is currently receiving – the type of intervention, the intensity, and the intervention group goals?

Step 4-5: Setting Goals and Monitoring Progress

STEP 4: Team sets measurable goals for each Tier II and III group to achieve by next review point.

PROCESSES	DISCUSSION PROMPTS	MEASURES
State goals in terms of desired score by the next benchmark assessment (typically the next benchmark score or improvement on specific basic early literacy skill or skill related to the State of Texas Assessments of Academic Readiness).	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>"What is the overall goal for this entire intervention group?" (i.e., minimum rate of progress)</li> <li>"Which students could use reasonable push to a higher level of achievement by the next benchmark period?" (e.g., red to yellow, yellow to green)</li> </ul>	Tier II and III Intervention Master List (for Intervention providers)

STEP 5: Team determines criteria for monitoring students' progress.

PROCESSES	DISCUSSION PROMPTS
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Consider grade-level expectations and types of evidence needed to determine sufficient or insufficient progress in Tier II and III (e.g., benchmark, progress-monitoring data).</li> <li>Consider possible steps if students make insufficient progress toward target skill level.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>"How will we know whether the group is on target for meeting end-of-year goals? How will we know whether individual students are on target for end-of-year goals?"</li> <li>"What instructional changes should be made to accelerate the progress of [students/groups] not on target?"</li> <li>"How many data review points will we consider when determining whether students make sufficient progress?"</li> </ul>

Step 6: Plan Communication with Parents & Next Steps

STEP 6: Team plans communication with parents.
Agree on a plan for sending letters home to parents.

BETWEEN MIDDLE- AND END-OF-YEAR MEETINGS

- Set next meeting date.
- Monitor fidelity of instruction.
- Monitor students' progress.
- Interventionist regularly examines data and instruction to ensure each student achieves at the minimum rate of progress.
- Adjust instruction, based on student performance and progress-monitoring data (e.g., pacing, skill reinforcement, Tier I instruction). A team meeting may not be necessary—teachers are encouraged to continue to adjust instruction, based on student performance and observation.

End of Year (EOY) Meetings

Goals of this training

- To understand the purpose and goals for EOY Structured Data Meetings
- To understand how to apply the meeting process in a way that is most efficient and effective for your campus
- To understand the protocol and materials you need to facilitate effective EOY meetings and to document decisions

Guiding Questions for EOY

- What impact has our instructional decisions made at MOY had on students? What were our students' response to those instructional decisions?
- What impact has the supports provided to teachers this year had on instruction and learning?
- What challenges have we encountered with Tier II/III interventions this year? How can we better address those next year?

What you will need for EOY:

For EOY Meeting

- End-of-Year Protocol (one per facilitator)
- End-of-Year Checklist (electronic; one per person)
- Completed Tier I Instructional Plans from previous meeting
- Completed Tiers II and III Intervention Worksheet and Master List from previous meeting
- Class performance data
- Designated place for recording goals (e.g., Eduphoria spreadsheets)
- Chart paper and marker
- Standardized reading intervention teacher materials
- EOY Instructional Improvement Plan (electronic; one per person)
- Completed End-of-Year Instructional Improvement Plan from previous year

Guides for Data Meeting Discussion

Teams I-III End-of-Year Protocol
Setting Goals and Planning Action Steps

Objectives

- Use I-III End-of-Year Protocol (this document) and pre-identified data
- Use I-III End-of-Year Protocol to create annual goals
- Create action planning steps
- Create data monitoring and reporting systems
- Create goals and action
- Use of the Instructional Improvement Plan (IIP) (this document) to plan for the year

Instructional Improvement Plan (IIP)

- Complete IIP for each team
- Review IIP for each team
- Submit IIP to the principal

Key questions for data meeting discussion

- How are we doing?
- What are our goals?
- How are we going to get there?

Allocating Time for your meetings: Some suggestions

- Have student data prepared and available to teachers before the meetings.
- Give team members "homework" for analyzing the data beforehand.
- Ask your team to consider what the data is telling them about students before the meeting, and to come prepared to discuss how to target their students' instructional needs.

Steps 3-6 Plan for Support: The Big Questions

How can we organize as a grade level/campus to meet student needs?
What supports do we need to implement to achieve our goals?

www.meadowscenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Steps 3 – 6: Plan for Support

Guiding TIER I questions for EOY:

- What instructional practices worked (i.e., resulted in improved outcomes) this year?
- In what areas are students still in need of support? Did we target these areas in previous meetings? If so, why have we not seen improvement?
- What additional instructional practices can we implement next year to target these areas?

Project ELITE supported by U.S. Office of Special Education Programs Grant H326M110003.
www.meadowscenter.org/projects/detail/english-learner-institute-for-teaching-and-excellence-project-elite

Step 3: Identify instructional practices to support goals

STEP 3: Team analyzes performance data and identifies a plan for supporting new Tier I instruction goals.

PROCEDURE	DISCUSSION PROMPTS	MATERIALS
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Complete item analysis to identify skills that many students missed; analyze differences in performance on the Dynamic Indicators of Basic Early Literacy Skills (e.g., Letter-Naming Fluency, Nonsense Word Fluency) or other benchmark skills.</li> <li>• Discuss a plan for Tier I instruction that directly addresses new goals.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• "With which [items/concepts] did [students/classes] struggle most?"</li> <li>• "With which items did ELLs struggle most?"</li> <li>• "In what areas was there growth between the middle and end of the year? In what areas is there still need for improvement?" (e.g., accuracy)</li> <li>• "Do we need to change instruction to meet targeted goals?" (e.g., making instruction more explicit, focusing more on different skills, increasing pace of lessons, modifying small-group instruction)</li> </ul>	Chart paper to record ideas (see for ideas: Treasures, Tips of the Week, Florida Center for Reading Research, Read Naturally, Reading A to Z, Center on Instruction, Institute of Education Sciences practice guides, etc.)

Step 4, Plan for Support: Evaluate and Select Practices

STEP 4: Team records a plan for Tier I improvement for the next year.

PROCEDURE	DISCUSSION PROMPTS	MATERIALS
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Select instructional practices to implement with greater focus next year (according to filters: evidenced based, practical, etc.).</li> <li>• Identify whether curricular materials are available or can be readily created to implement the practice or strategy.</li> <li>• Identify additional resources needed to follow through with plan (e.g., teacher training or professional development, fidelity plan).</li> <li>• Identify ongoing challenges to meeting goals and prepare for those challenges.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• "Which of these practices have a research base? How do you know?"</li> <li>• "Can we implement these practices with relative ease? Do we have the materials available?"</li> <li>• "In what ways do these practices support ELLs? Which, if any, modifications need to be made to support ELLs?"</li> <li>• "What supports need to be in place to meet our new goals and action plan?" (e.g., additional professional development, resources)</li> <li>• "What other ongoing challenges do we need to plan for now to prepare for next year?"</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Chart paper to record team analysis of each idea</li> <li>• End-of-Year Instructional Improvement Plan, Part B</li> </ul>

Overview of Product Impact

Flip Book Tool

The English Language Learner Institute for Teaching and Excellence (Project ELITE) worked with district leaders and educators in Del Valle Independent School District to optimize literacy instruction to meet the diverse needs of English learners (ELs). To address this goal, the project worked with kindergarten to grade 3 teachers at three elementary schools to implement a read-aloud routine to enhance vocabulary and comprehension during core reading instruction.

During the 3 years of implementing the routine and using the flip book tool, educators participating in the project have seen very positive impacts on ELs' vocabulary awareness and use, as well as their own professional development in working with linguistically diverse students.

Because of the positive impacts in kindergarten to grade 3, Project ELITE teamed up with the Texas Literacy Initiative to extend the read-aloud to prekindergarten students and publish an additional flip book tool. This school year, Texas Literacy Initiative schools in Austin and Arlington expressed interest in the routine due to the strong focus on ELs and building both vocabulary and comprehension, which were identified needs in the schools. Project ELITE and the Texas Literacy Initiative worked together with district leaders and early childhood teachers to pilot, modify, and refine the kindergarten to grade 3 tool for prekindergarten age 3 and age 4 children. Now, teachers throughout those school districts are trained on the routine and are beginning to implement it with their students.

Parent Read-Aloud Bookmark

During the 2012–2013 school year, Project ELITE worked with kindergarten to grade 3 teachers at Baty Elementary School in Del Valle Independent School District to implement a new way of reading books aloud to enhance students' vocabulary and comprehension. Project ELITE developed a bookmark that presents this routine in a format for parents to use with their children.

This tool has been disseminated through the Texas Literacy Initiative in large Texas school districts such as Arlington and Austin. The Texas Literacy Initiative has worked with literacy partners (e.g., public libraries) to disseminate the tool to families and collaborate on home-school literacy connections. Additionally, Project ELITE has worked with SAREads, a nonprofit organization in San Antonio, to disseminate the tool and provide support for educator-family collaboration around literacy.

The tool has also been adapted for the National Association for Parents of Children Who Are Visually Impaired (NAPVI) and disseminated at many conferences, including the following:

- American Foundation for the Blind 2014 National Conference (New York)
- American Foundation for the Blind 2015 National Conference (Phoenix)
- Lighthouse preschool teacher training session (New York)
- NAPVI 2015 National Conference (Chicago)
- New York Institute for Special Education Teacher-Parent Conference
- New York State Chapter of the Association for Education and Rehabilitation of the Blind and Visually Impaired teacher training and classroom activity
- New York State NAPVI Back-to-School Conference
- New York State NAPVI Parents Conference
- New York State NAPVI Parents Conference for Hispanic Families (in Spanish)
- Perkins School for the Blind Early Childhood Conference (Boston)
- VISIONS 2014 Summer Program: Family presentation

The tool also has been used to plan read-alouds for parents of children who are visually impaired that will be published in the Children's Braille Book of the Month Club.

Structured Data Meetings: Protocols and Materials

As part of its support to kindergarten to grade 3 educators who work with ELs, Project ELITE has developed tools for implementing structured data meetings. These tools can be used for beginning-, middle-, and end-of-the-year meetings to guide educators in reviewing data and making instructional decisions for ELs. Project ELITE also developed tools for monthly meetings that guide classroom teachers in reviewing student data and optimizing core literacy instruction for ELs.

These tools have been included as resources for educators across Texas through the Texas State Literacy Plan online course. They will be continually available to Texas educators as part of courses on assessment, data-based decision-making, and ELs.
